

National VOAD Members Resource Directory

The following lists each National VOAD member organizations and the types of services provided during emergencies and disasters. This is not a guarantee of services nor does it list every possible service provided. Much is dependent upon the type of disaster, services provided by other coordinating nonprofits, and local resources.

American Radio Relay League (ARRL)
Amateur Radio Emergency Services (ARES)

- Operators setup and run organized communication networks locally for governmental and emergency officials, as well as non-commercial communication for private citizens affected by the disaster. They activate after disasters damage regular lines of communications due to power outages and destruction of telephone, cellular and other infrastructure-dependent systems.
- ARRL volunteers act as communications volunteers with local public safety organizations. In addition, in some disasters, radio frequencies are not coordinated among relief officials and Amateur Radio operators step in to coordinate communication when radio towers and other elements in the communication infrastructure are damaged.
- At the local level, Hams may participate in local emergency organizations, or organize local “traffic nets.”
